Coins of the Parthian King Andragoras

Also generally unknown kings or revolting satraps issued coins in the territory of the Seleucid Kingdom during the unclear period of the wars of the diadochs. The Parthian satrap Andragoras was one of them. Only two denominations are known among his coins: gold stater (ca 8.48 g) and silver tetradrachm (ca 16.96 g). The freshly published unique obolus is regarded as suspect. This preliminary attribution resulted primarily from the finding place and iconographical analogies.
