

Nový typ bójského statéru

J I Ř Í M I L I T K Ý

 66, 2011, s. 99–104

A new type of the Boian staters

A new type of the Boian stater appeared in the numismatic trade in 2003. The finding place is unknown. The coin is iconographically unclear – possibly a stylized head to left on obverse and torques on reverse. The coin obviously comes from the Bohemian territory, possibly older phase of the Bohemian oppidi, but it was with high probability produced outside the circulation territory of these coins. Concerning the absolute dating, it was possibly struck sometimes during the second third of the 2nd century BC. The mentioned coin type interestingly enriches the series of the Boian coinage.

 the Boians; stater; unknown type.

 Bójové; statér; typ neznámý.