The Emperor Franz II (I) (1792–1835) and his rule shown on medals

The article offers survey of medal production struck under the last Roman and the first Austrian Emperor Franz of the Habsburg-Lorraine dynasty. They are the following: medals connected with personal, political and military events in life of the ruler, who spent almost half of his rule fighting against Napoleon Bonaparte. The French and Austrian medals are compared. Technological progress and its influence on the striking technology are dealt, plus real life and its reflection in case of the iconographical style applied on medals are studied.
