Unpublished type of the south Bavarian Celtic $^{1}\!\!/_{\!\!4}$ stater from the numismatic department of the National Museum

The south Bavarian region represents a very important segment of the central European Celtic coinage. The typology of the Vindelic coinage has been surveyed by H.-J. Kellner. The author classified 13 basic groups of gold staters and ¼ staters with many varieties. But the ¼ staters have been evidently struck in clearly smaller numbers compared to the staters. The main reason for this article was publication of the unknown type of ¼ stater (no. A 1). Its provenance is unknown as well as its potential belonging to a coin collection. The newly described ¼ stater clearly represents the small denomination of the classified staters of the IIA type. In 1996, another ¼ stater piece appeared in Zürich Leu auction (Fig. 1). Two other interesting types of ¼ staters (Figs. 2–3) are related to the stater group II, and they enrich the denomination spectrum of the south Bavarian gold denominations. Two other Vindelic ¼ staters (nos. A2–A3) preserved in the numismatic department of the National Museum were published in this article.
